Arrowwood Social Credit Group Elect Officers

The regular meeting of the Arrowwood Social Credit Group was held on Wednesday, Sept. 2nd, with a good attendance. The main feature was the election of officers for the year, which resulted as follows:

Premier William Aberhart, Honorary President.

Rev. Peter Dawson, M.L.A., Honorary Vice-President.

L. H. Irwin, re-elected President.

E. Lewendon, first Vice-President.

M. DeWitt, second Vice-President.

E. G. Harp, Sec-Treas.

P. H. Coleman, J. Hesketh and M. L. Terichow, Directors.

The following Convenors were named: A. S. Currie, entertainment; C. G. Taylor, agriculture; H. Miller, education; W. J. Schultz, legislation.

Several new members signed up, bringing the total to about fifty.

The Game Act, 1936

Extracts from the Game Act, 1936, of particular interest to hunters of this district:

Persons Entitled to Hunt without License

Any person who—

(a) is a resident within the meaning of this Act;

(b) is in the occupation of land as owner, purchaser, lessee or homesteader which is used for farming purposes; and

(c) resides and carries on the business of a farmer or rancher upon such land or some part thereof—as well as any member of such person's household, may hunt, take, shoot at, wound and kill game birds without any license at such places and during such times as any person holding a game bird license.

Live Decoys and Rifles Prohibited

5. (a) No person shall for the purpose of taking, capturing, killing or destroying any migratory waterfowl, use or employ any live decoys.

(b) No person shall kill any migratory game birds with a rifle of any kind.

Persecution Not Protected

mountain goat between the 1st day of Sept. and the 31st day of Oct. Both dates inclusive.

(d) deer, moose and caribou,

Nov. 2nd to Dec. 14th. Both dates inclusive.

(e) bear from Sept. 1st to June 14th.

(d) the holder of a Special Elk License may hunt, take or kill one male elk with head of eight points or over in the Fenn-Brazeau Elk Reserve and adjacent areas from Oct. 1st to Dec. 14th—both dates inclusive, provided, however, Elk may be taken in that part of the Fenn-Brazeau Elk Reserve lying within the Brazeau Forest between Sept. 15th and Dec. 14th—both dates inclusive.

Open Season for Game Birds

The holder of a General Game License or a Game Bird License may hunt, take, shoot at and kill ducks, geese, rails, coots (commonly called mud hens) and Wilson snipe South of the Clearwater and Athabasca Rivers, from 12 o'clock mid-day on Sept. 15th up to and including Nov. 4th, in that part of the Province lying south of above mentioned Rivers.

Bag Limit for Geese

The holder of any such license shall not kill or take in any one day more than twelve ducks and shall not take in one season more than one hundred ducks.

Bag Limit for Geese

The holder of any such license shall not kill or take in any one day more than five geese, or more than twenty-five geese in the season for which the license is issued.

Open Season for Hungarian Partridge

The holder of a General License or a Game Bird License may hunt, take, shoot at or kill Hungarian Partridge between Oct. 5th and Nov. 30th, both dates inclusive in that part of the Province lying south of the North Saskatchewan River. Bag Limit, not more than fifteen in one day, or in any one season more than two hundred.

Encouragement to Poultry Raisers

As an encouragement to the poultry raisers in the province of Alberta who undertake Record of Performance under Federal jurisdiction, the Poultry Department of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, will provide free flock approval and blood-test service this year to all flocks entered and in good standing, in R.O.P.

Full particulars with respect to making entry in R.O.P. and details of the work, may be obtained from the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. As the period for receiving entries close early in the fall, those interested are advised to act as little delay as possible. G. M. Cormie, Poultry Commissioner, in making this announcement, points out that each year shows a decided increase in the demand for R.O.P. stock and this is another means whereby Alberta poultrymen can create additional markets for the products.

One touch of scandal makes the whole world chin.

GRAIN TRADE AND MINIMUM PRICE

The Western Producer in its issue of September 3rd, referring to the decision of the government in regard to the minimum price for wheat and its reception by Western farmers, says:

"To them and to many of those whom they elected it must have come as a cruel disillusionment to find that their government chose to listen to and be guided by the grain trade and other reactionary elements in their midst while refusing even to acknowledge the submissions of organized agriculture."

The implication that the grain trade or any section of it has at any time made representations to the Government, or to the Canadian Wheat Board, or has tendered advice to those bodies relative to the establishment of the minimum price for wheat at 87½ cents per bushel or any other figure, is absolutely false.

The interests of wheat producers and of the grain trade are identical and regard to grain prices. The grain trade in Canada is bound up with the prosperity of producers.

It has an interest in keeping grain prices down. The figure at which the minimum price should be set is a matter to be decided by the Government, having in view the loss which it might be prepared to sustain in the event of a decline in world wheat prices. The grain trade has repeatedly stated its belief that producers must be assisted to overcome the adverse conditions resulting from drought and excessive low prices. But it has been opposed to attempts to fix the price at which Canadian grain should be offered in the export markets or to hold Canadian wheat at prices above its relative value in world markets because such attempts must result in (a) loss of markets and diminution sales, (b) creation of burdensome surpluses, (c) eventual loss both to producers and taxpayers, and (d), encouragement of unscrupulous and high-cost production by our competitors."

In the continuance of the open market for grain and the preservation of every available channel through which Canadian grain can be sold out to be found a guarantee of the best return to Canadian producers. To maintain such returns is as much the desire and interest of the grain trade as of the producers themselves.

There is room for honest difference of opinion as to what the minimum price should be. But there is no justification for false imputations of motive and act.

United Grain Growers Declare Dividend

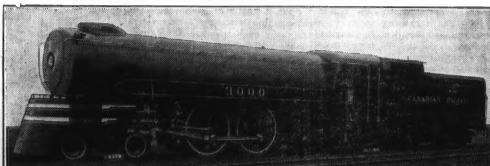

A Dividend at the rate of three per cent has been declared by the Directors of United Grain Growers Limited, for the financial year ending July 31st, 1936. Cheques will be mailed on September 15th, 1936, to shareholders of record at the close of business, July 31st.

Shower for Mrs. Max Mulberry

The shower for Mrs. Max Mulberry, sponsored by the Ladies' Aid of the Brethren Church, was well attended. It was held last Friday afternoon in the church basement. About fifty ladies were present and the bride received many lovely gifts.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the amateur radio broadcasts.

New Locomotives Poems in Steel

Cleverly carved, silver locomotives are poems in steel, graceful, light-weight, semi-streamlined, machine capable of 110 miles an hour. Radical departures in construction have been made in the Canadian Pacific Railway's five new "3000" engines, the first of which was taken over on Monday, July 27, at a brilliant ceremony which was broadcast on a nation-wide radio net-work through the facilities of the company's Communications Department, which was headed by Sir Edward Beatty, G.M.C.L.D., chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway; His Worship Mayor Camille de Montral; William H. McRae, president of the Montreal Locomotive Company, where the new locomotive was built; and J. N. Burke, president of the Canadian Pacific.

New Jubilee Locomotives, so named because they will go into operation in the jubilee year of the company's transcontinental passenger service, will pull a completely new type of train, lighter than the ordinary, semi-streamlined, and comfortable. The new coaches are under construction.

Tennis Tournament

Labor Day was spent in a very enjoyable way, in spite of the rain. Tennis enthusiasts decided to have a tennis tournament. The contest was exciting and evenly matched—in some instances the contestants were Thelma Miller, Evelyn Burriss, Mary Dunca, Lorene Weisz, Marion Colman, Annie Danika, Geneva Culpe, Doris Miller, Millicent Taylor, Hazel Taylor, Irene and Dorothy Hesketh, Sarah Duncan and Edna Beagle.

The winners of the tournament were Millicent Taylor and Hazel Taylor, who won over Edna Beagle and Sarah Duncan in the finals.

Protest Minimum Wheat Price

Directors of the Alberta Wheat Pool, meeting in Calgary for their regular monthly session passed a resolution protesting against the fixed minimum and also the enactment which prevents the wheat board accepting deliveries until the price level goes below 90¢ a bushel.

In the words of the resolution the ruling "was considered tantamount to ordering withdrawal of the wheat board from fulfilling the function for which it was formed."

The Pool board expressed the opinion that the federal government had failed to consider its pre-election promise to market wheat at world levels and return to the growers in Canada a price commensurate with the cost of production.

"What the government's move virtually amounts to," the Pool directors stated, "is an order to the western wheat growers to accept financial rewards for labor based on world levels. What other class in Canada, outside primary producers, are thus treated?"

"We feel that the policy of the government is reactionary and that the interests of the wheat growers are not receiving the consideration they are entitled to, particularly in view of the considerable treatment given to wheat growers by the governments of virtually every other important wheat growing country in the world."

"The Pools obtained a wheat board after a long struggle and view its forthcoming disintegration with alarm and regret. The world wheat problem is not solved by any means and aggressive wheat board."

C.P.R. Tree Planting Car Will Be Here Sept. 18th-22nd

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company announce that a Tree Planting Car, will arrive at Arrowwood on Friday, Sept. 18th, at 1:30 p.m. and will be stationed here until 1 p.m. on Tuesday.

It is becoming recognized more and more every day that the number of trees planted must be increased as we will do great deal to prevent soil drifting in the future as well as improve the moisture condition.

The citizens of Arrowwood and district are cordially invited to attend one of these meetings.

This Tree Planting Car will be stationed at Moseleigh from 2 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 22nd till 12:45 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 23rd.

Thou Shalt Not Love

A NOVEL BY —
GEORGIA GRAIG

Starr thought she had never seen anything quite so contaminated as the man's eyes, with their craggy son leather chairs, bookcases with dim lights over them and low, comfortable chairs, each with its own particular light. The walls scattered rags, dustbins, and debris here and there, and—she held her breath as it took her straight back home—a painting on one wall of Egypt, gods and goddesses who seemed to fit in their stiff-pose starkness of dress with geometrical hands and draped bodies making the same old mysterious signs at each other, signaling.

The man caught Starr's eyes, saw something there he did not understand, nor did he care.

"Just a few of your pals," he said. "Thought you might like them. You might catch up a bit of chaff with them while I tell Yu'an what we're doing."

Over the supper they talked, undisturbed. But it was a talk of such consequence that it was a table of scarcely touched food as their eyes held each other's in long moment of appraisal.

The man's elbows rested on the table and he leaned close. The girl's arms were wrapped nervously in her lap as her glasses flashed from her face. Her head dropped her coat on a red leather chair. A faint color crept beneath the pallor of her cheeks, feeling her look at her the way he was looking.

It was then, after they had fended to the point of one or the other lunging for a body blow, that he made the most astounding proposition a man ever made to a girl.

"I've got an extra room available," he said, his voice low and hoarse. "There hasn't appeared any particular reason for mentioning it before, but my name is Michael Fairbourne. The next in the mystery confession is that I work for the Tassie Publishing Company. One of our newest novels is 'Play-Girl'."

Starr nodded. Heard of it? Who hadn't? "Play-Girl" was on every body's lips. One of those sensational best-sellers which come in a million copies. Some of them, in the few years of course; others make a devastating disturbance of their own. But it was the consensus opinion that "Play-Girl" was a Victorian and skinnikinnick sort of tone, one which ought to be on every Sunday-School library shelf compared with "Play-Girl." "Play-Girl"—a daring, risqué, off-the-wall, ultra-modern woman-love—and sin. Her own unrepentant, unrepentant life story—a life still too young really to be called a life, but—

Michael Fairbourne said curiously: "I think it..."

Starr caught her breath incredulously. "You wrote it? But I thought..."

"So does everyone else," he said grimly. His face was set and stern, as though he appeared to be uncertain just how he wanted to continue. But he plunged on headlong.

"The company I work for ballyhooed it as the confession story of a woman who had sold her soul to the Devil," he said by the anonymous "Play-Girl" herself.

He shrugged his big shoulders and waited the space of time it took him to light a cigarette. Then he spoke again, his voice monotone, the thing an infinite, and it got away from me. Have you ever known the feeling of starting a small thing rolling, much as you've

RHEUMATISM SPREAD TO ALL HER JOINTS

Obtained Relief by Using Kruschen Salts

Here is a sad story of suffering, but it has a happy ending. This woman who attended by several physicians, which spread all over her joints. "Truth is, there's a girl I hope to marry," Stephanie Dale. The Dales are one of the oldest, proudest families in New York, which is why I hope to marry a great deal at that except that they are among the few real old New Yorkers who still talk a great deal about dear old Uncle Great-grand-and-a-half Peter.

Rheumatic conditions are frequent, due to an excess of salt in the diet. In these salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved acidic acid through the natural channels.

Probably made a snowball when you were a kid, but then finding it too cold. Well, that's what happened to "Play-Girl." The last thing I ever dreamed of in the world was that it would cause such a sensation. Now the public is so shocked at her appearance—revelled—a sort of personal appearance, as it were, and my publisher demands that I either simpler forward and confess myself the damn fool author of the book or, else produce an author who would be more in keeping with it."

Starr interrupted, not understanding what he was driving at. He acted as if he were writing a history of his father's tones on archaeology. It had not occurred that any person could go to the tremendous trouble of putting down on paper enough words to fill a whole book and then shun from the acclaim of authorship.

"Well," she asked wonderingly, "why don't you admit your identity and let the family's coming to you?" I should think I would be marvelously to a real author."

"Who? Me?" Michael snapped, and he gave a short laugh. "Fame? Notoriety's the word! And certainly no credit to the kind of masqueur who would be in keeping with it."

Starr asked quietly: "And just where do I figure in this intriguing little story?"

Michael Fairbourne smiled audaciously and leaped back, showing the play of her features.

"You," he said with slow emphasis, "are going to make your debut in New York City as the solution 'Play-Girl'—the woman who lived my story, and yes, by heaven, who wrote it, too, without a single ghost. You look as if you could have."

Starr drew a long, strained breath. Her face was flushed, her fingers were dancing a funny little devil's dance. She had a confused impression of burning gray eyes, a laughing mouth, a strong, magnetic attraction which was stronger than anything she had ever known. His crisp voice cut into her confusion:

"The first moment I heard you on the telephone, I was crying out that you wanted to play. I knew you were the one for the job. I was more certain of it when I had a glimpse of you late this afternoon and you disappeared before I got a second sight of you."

brain that could evolve such truck. No I can't do it."

"Why did you write it then?" Starr wondered, but he was paying her no attention.

"I might as well make a clean breast of it, what with your friend who spread all over her joints."

Visited Dying Soldier

New Story Proves Again Kindness Of King Edward

The dedication by King Edward VII of Canada's memorial to her dead at Vimy has inspired the publication of records of His Majesty's last visit there, as Prince of Wales. One, hitherto unrecorded, runs as follows:

"Some years after the war an ex-soldier was dying, friendless, in a hospital, a lonely, wistful, well-known pauper. As death drew near the man expressed a desire to see the King—then Prince of Wales whom he had known in France."

The King understood and sent to York House only to be told that the Prince had retired for the night. Evidently the Prince heard and recognized the caller's voice, for a few minutes later, clothed, put on his coat and dressing gown, he came down stairs and the visitor explained his mission.

"I remember the man," replied the Prince, "and I must see him. I am not ill, but as he is so ill we had better go at once. Tomorrow may be late."

"Tiptoe along the wrist," says the Queen, along which recalls the story: "The Prince went straight to the man's bedside. He took the man's hand and remained thus for some time."

"The man was too far gone to respond, but he opened his eyes and gave a smile of recognition and gratitude. Then he lapsed into a state of coma... That afternoon he died."

Find Undersea Channel

American Coast Guards Have Discovered Old River Bed

Tentative evidence that the Mississippi River once flowed far to the south, through land that since has fallen into the Gulf of Mexico, has been found.

Existence of an undersea channel, such as a river bed, was discovered by soundings from the U.S. Geodetic Survey's Hydrographic Office. After taking on supplies at New Orleans, the Hydrographer returned to the Gulf to study the phenomenon.

Recordings of coast guard experts told of a depression, one to two fathoms deep, running east and west across the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico, more than 100 miles from the 10-fathom limit of the coast and is expected to exist for many years.

The course of the channel seems to be in the same direction as the present Mississippi Valley further to the east, and further study is expected to prove whether or not geologists have been held.

Their idea is that the rich Mississippi Valley country originally extended far south and that hundreds of years the land has been sinking into the Gulf of Mexico.

Soundings of the Hydrographer are taken at the rate of four a second. The ship works north and south over a limited area. Similar geodetic surveying is being carried along the entire American coastline.

Perfect Driver Rare

Tests Show Most Of Them Have Weak Weakness

Dr. Silas G. Hart, of the traffic research department of Harvard University, has tested a large number of drivers, and it is his opinion that the auto driver who clicks on all phases of the tests is exceptional, because he is even more likely to have driving weakness of which he is unaware. MOST "B" BATTERIES look very much alike on the outside. But it isn't what a battery looks like that counts—but what it does.

Underneath the jacket of some brands of batteries, are small round cells. The heart of a Layerbilt is a series of tightly packed layers.

In the old-fashioned round-cell type, note the waste space in the "Air Cells" between the cells. But the Layerbilt uses battery cells containing 25% more power-making materials than a round-cell battery of the same size.

And because the exclusive construction uses up the maximum of these materials, Layerbilt gives 40% more power than any other "B" battery.

Layerbilt is little more at first, but saves you plenty in the end. Of all "B" batteries on the market, Layerbilt gives you "More Hours per Dollar"—longer life, trouble-free service.

This year—Layerbilt comes to you with an extra improvement—the "plug-in" which eliminates all terminal posts and gives you only one connection for each "B" battery.

If grain growers do not fight for their own interests, who will aid them?

The Alberta Wheat Pool is continually striving to improve the lot of grain growers.

Better protection and better prices is the objective sought.

The Pool is the only grain handling organization keeping up the battle. It fights alone, among commercial concerns, for a living wage for grain growers.

United Church Notes

At the Arrowwood United Church on Sunday, Sept. 13th, the minister will take for his subject "The Great Gambler".

The sermon is not a condemnation of gambling but rather an endorsement of it in some of its forms and is addressed particularly to young people. If there are young people or any others who look upon religion as a dry stuffy sort of life that has no appeal for strong red-blooded people they should hear this sermon.

"Steel of Empire," the recently published book by John Murray Gibbon, while really the story of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is also so much of other Canadian history that it will find a permanent place in the library of the Bow Valley. Since the first known arrival on our shores a Chinaman, Hsi Sien, in British Columbia in 1788, through the 19th century, Mr. Gibbon traces the romantic growth of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and along with a wealth of incident and detail, the author's long association with the railway having been the theme of his life.

Possessing one of the finest collections in the world of colored prints of scenes in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, the late George Bant, recently exhibited his collection at the Vancouver Club at an illustrated lecture at the Vancouver Hotel. The pictures depict scenes of mountains, valleys, lakes and birds, animal and flower life.
